

Gerardo Alvarado (12), Jose Cruz (12), and Ken Baker (12)

Mr. Shuford

TBE- Throw Back Everyday! One of the many things that Enloe High School is proud of is the extensive variety of history classes. Enloe's proud professor, Dr. Hoffman (below), introduces an intriguing way to teach and sometimes keeps his students' attentions by giving his lectures from the top of his desk. Students in Mr. Landesman's American history classes as well as Human Geography find learning through presentations as most beneficial. Not only are students engaged in their own presentation, the students in the rest of the class are able to follow along with their peers more effectively. This really puts the fun back into history!

Srisai Pusuluri (9), Danielle Cullen (10), and Christopher Thomas (12)

Dr. Hoffman

Karina Adams (10), Isabel Baggett (10), Maya Burchell (10), and Eleanor Meynardie (10)

22 By: Courtney Eash

Social Studies

The Best 4 Credits of Your Life

Emely Cruz-Villatoro (12) and Ms. Shea

Today we rewrote history history. At Enloe, students have the opportunity to take over 20 different social studies classes. These courses cover topics such as the diffusion of global religions and the study of why people are located where they are. Ms. Shea (left) teaches AP, IB, honors and standard American history. In her classes she is able to really dive into the development of America's history in an informative way. Students are engaged in projects, presentations, and more in order to really absorb the information. Every history student would agree that the importance of group work is undeniably a necessity. Through group work, students are able to collaborate and even further learn from their peers. To all, this collaborative activity is what makes Enloe's history and social studies programs great. Alexis Ilgandi (11, below) says, "I have learned so much more from Enloe's encouragement of group work and projects than I have anywhere else." Alexis speaks for most when she says that history classes are truly a blast from the past!

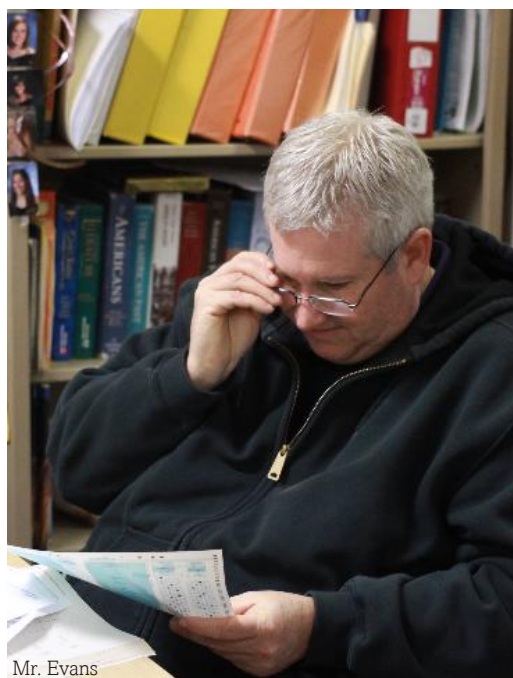

Makala' Bertrand (11) and Makayla Williams (11)

Alexis Ilgandi (11)

Adam Steene (10)

Mr. Evans

Adam Mottershead (12)

Academics 23